

Converter Use

What do I need to know?

The vitalwater converter is suitable for vitalising running (or standing) water and is attached to the central mains water pipe. A pair of converters can vitalize 1000l per day (daily requirement for households up to 6 people).

How long does the converter work?

Its effectiveness lasts for at least 30 years.

i-like meta-converters are:

100% Swiss Engineering
100% Swiss Made

Effect of the vitalwater converter:

Water molecules are declustered and information from healing spring water is imparted. This creates new, easily flowing information (Gu-Qi) in the water. The result is an information purity of primal spring water, which is ideal for all living beings, especially for our whole body.

Certification for companies

Use of the vitalwater converter

The vitalwater converter from i-like is suitable for vitalising running and standing water in large quantities. It is used wherever water is used:

- in residential buildings
- in flats
- in commercial buildings
- in schools
- in nurseries
- in catering
- in hotels
- in swimming pools
- in spas
- in garden centres
- and many more places.

Benefit from other bioresonance products, such as meta-converters, sinus devices, Bamboo-Vitalplasters, CurSun+, Vitaldrink, bioresonance cosmetics and many other valuable helpers in everyday life!

Water the elixir of life

Water is the basis of all life. It is probably the largest source of information about both the earth and the body. Fresh spring water is vital and rich in energy. The earth, the "blue planet", consists of around 71% water. Despite the large amount of water on earth, only a small part of it is drinkable. Unfortunately, contamination, chemical pollution, negative frequencies (e.g. e-smog, radio waves, satellite frequencies etc.) but also pressure in water pipes and much more can change this elixir of life. Our drinking water is drinkable, but this water has usually lost its original purity, strength and vitality which is important for our cells.

The i-like bioresonance technology realigns the information of the water. The water molecules are declustered (i.e. unclumped) and the original information in the water can flow. Just as it occurs in pure mountain spring water (Gu-Qi =food energy).

Difference between filters and the vitalwater converter

What does a conventional water filter do?

Unwanted substances and pollutants in water can partly be removed using filter systems. Here, the heavy parts (substances) are filtered out of water. The pressure in the water filter creates clustered water molecules. The pollutant information itself is stored in the matrix of the water (water cluster) and is transferred to the information of the living cells (humans, epigenetics). In addition, pollutants bind more easily with clustered water. This means that toxin information, but also toxins themselves, are increasingly absorbed by humans through clumped (clustered) water.

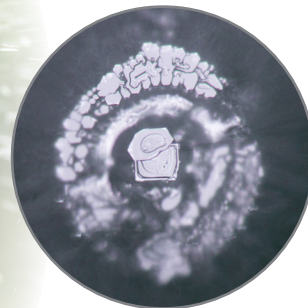

What does the vitalwater converter do?

vitalwater converters are charged with vital frequencies for water. In addition, healing spring water information is uploaded to the water flow. In this way, the water's original information is revived and the structure is unclumped (so-called "open clusters"). The negative information is removed and the properties of the water in relation to people and their well-being are optimised. The result is the vitality of water from a mountain spring!

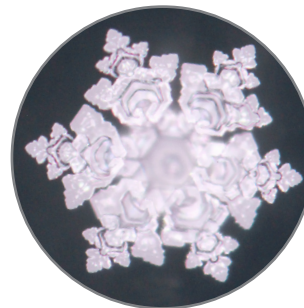

Test and measurements

Example: Osmosis water was revitalised with the converter technology from i-like. The results are amazing!

Before being applied,
without converter.

After being applied,
with converter.

The measurement by the Hado Life laboratory shows how positive frequency changes can be achieved with the converter.

Your health, your resilience and your vitality is determined by the water IN your body!

Good to know!

The vitalwater converter is suitable for vitalising running water and is attached to the central mains water pipe. It consists of two parts, which must always be used in combination. A single converter has no function.

A pair of converters can vitalize 1000l per day (daily requirement for households up to 6 people). If you use more water, please place converters behind or next to each other (not on top of each other), directly on the pipe.

With the vitalwater converter you get the quality of vital mountain spring water.
